WILLIAM WEBB FARM, SHED

HABS No. GA-20-C

Location: State Highway 3/U.S. Highway 19, Smithville, Sumter County, Georgia

Significance: The William Webb house is located on approximately eight hundred acres of farmland historically associated with two other farmhouses and the Webb family. This house is part of a National Register listed district that consists of three historic farmhouses with their associated outbuildings and one non-historic house. The shed associated with the William Webb Farm is significant as an agricultural structure associated with a farm operated continuously by the same family since the early 1800s.

Description: When the property was listed in the National Register of Historic Places in 1995, a collection of historic wood framed outbuildings including a mule barn, smoke house, wash house, chicken house, a carriage house and a dilapidated tenant cottage were included in the nomination. A large mule barn and several smaller outbuildings associated with the William Webb farm were extant in 2006. The wood frame shed is front gabled with horizontal plank siding and a metal roof with an open shed extension on one side.

History: The shed was constructed in 1930.

Sources: The information was obtained from the National Register form for the Webb Family Farm.
